The latest issue of the clubs newsletter has been flying out of the bike shops with requests for more copies from two shops. Good job Matt S on this issue. Matt needs help filtering the numerous requests for events publication. Marshall volunteered to try re-writing events in a format that can be inserted into the newsletter. Matt will be editing the TT results for the next (Sept./Oct.) newsletter due out by the first of Sept. If there is any changes or updates to the web page send an e-mail to Robert Cone rcrone@svbikeclub.org with the subject line "Update".

The 16th SVB Festival held from OCP on July 28th was a great success thanks to the OCP folks for food, SAG, and support. Thanks also to everyone in the club who helped mark routes, pre-ride, Sag, lead or sweep. Everyone seemed to think the event was very well done. There was a suggestion to hold the lawn jam on the same day as well as ask in-line skaters to not ride the same routes as the bikers.

There will be a Century meeting this coming Wed. Aug. 15th 7:30 @ Art's. Pre-registrations are way ahead of last year. All sorts of volunteers are needed, especially SAG drivers. Come to the meeting or contact Art to volunteer. Ben promised to breast feed Wed. because Anna has a late clinic. (Does anyone really read the minutes?).

The Rockingham Multiuse path has been painted and marked. Thanks to the city for undertaking this project and the club hopes this is the beginning of a bike friendly city. Other paths are in the planning or even construction phase such as the Arboretum Trail to connect student housing to campus. Your input to city council is encouraged. E-mail members of the council on connecting the high school to Hillandale Park and signage for the JMU to EMU route. Look around for good routes for bikes to travel and let city council know your thoughts.

In other business the next SMBC Festival meeting will be held in conjunction with the regular club meeting 8 PM Tuesday Aug. 23rd @ Dave's. The Festival is October 12th-14th.

The club consolidation meetings have been going well, they keep having them. So far the name has been narrowed to a few selections and a discussion on the number and function of the board and officers has been productive.

Upcoming rides are the Cheat Mountain Century Aug. 19th, the Blue Ridge Extreme Aug. 26th, the Mile Post Zero Century Sept. 2nd and of course the SVBC Century Sept. 9th. Registration forms and money was flying around the table Monday as folks got on the 25th Century band wagon.

Last but not least is an upcoming Alley Cat on Sat. Aug. 25th. This one promises to be like no other so come to Court Square with helmet and $2. Check web pages for more details or contact Connie P.

Respectfully or otherwise submitted,
Marshall
Sec. SVBC

There is another alleycat on Sept. 8th at 5pm at Court Square. Bring $2, bike helmet and pen. Alleycat Olympics! Email hburgalleycat@gmail.com for more info.

SVBC/SMBC Steering Committee Update

As many of you know this past winter members of the Shenandoah Valley Bicycle Club and Shenandoah Mountain Bike Club overwhelmingly voted to combine the two local cycling clubs. Soon after the "Vote" a steering committee was formed to begin the process on how best to move forward with combining the clubs. Meeting at least once a month this year the steering committee has been able to tackle many issues involving the combination. This November the steering committee hopes to present their ideas and suggestion to the officers, board of directors and interested members of the clubs. Then the new officers and board members will be able to take the formal steps of creating the new organization. During this November meeting the steering committee will report on many issues including the following: Name of Organization, Mission and Vision Statements, Articles of Incorporation, Bylaws and Organizational structure.

The time and date of the Steering Committee Report Meeting has yet to be determined but will be well advertised. We strongly encourage your involvement in this process and hope to see you at this meeting.

Your Steering Committee: Mike Carpenter, Carl Droms, Basil Hangemanole, Thomas Jenkins, Paul Johnston, Kyle Lawrence, Amy Potter, Matthew Wikswo, Ben Wyse

25th Annual Shenandoah Valley Century

(a quarter century of affordable centuries)

Cyclists are responding to our "sweet deal" of rolling back the Century fee to the first year (1983) prices; as I'm writing this we are halfway to our 300 rider limit. If you plan on riding, please register as soon as possible to guarantee your place in this year's event. Go to the SVBC website, active.com or stop by one of our area bike shops to pick up a brochure & thank them for their support. Cost goes up on August 25.

Of course there is a lot more happening than low registration fees – complimentary Polar water bottle for all who register & ride, free cycling portraits, door prizes including a hot air balloon ride from Valley Ballooning in Woodstock and of course the usual panini sandwiches and other goodies.

As usual, we still need volunteers to help us pull this off the day of the ride. At this point sag drivers, parking attendants & registration support are needed and perhaps some for check point action. If you know someone who can help the day of the ride, please have them contact Art Fovargue @ 433-9247 or century@svbikeclub.org. We are expecting lots of riders & so need lots of help. Plus, cool T-shirts for volunteers.

The "worker's century", where we mark the arrows on the road, is planned for Labor Day (Sept 3); help is needed here too. Meet at 9:00 AM at Seven Bridges Park (http://rockingham.va.golookon.com/maps/listings/seven_bridges_park) in Bridgewater; where the gazebo is on the WV side of Rt 42 by the bridge over the North River.

All are welcome, whether you volunteer the day of the ride or not.

Lastly, please help us out with the traditional baked goods for the day of the ride by making your favorite recipe for cookies, brownies, bread, etc. Bring to Hillandale, Shelter 11, the morning of the Century (or to Art's house the day before). If you can bake 3 dozen chocolate cookies, contact Robin at robin.neupauer@rrd.com.

Many thanks to all who are helping – hope to see you 9/9 for our Century Celebration. –Art

Indie Bike Blogger's Wed. Ride Report

The Wednesday social ride put on by the Shenandoah Valley Bike Club (www.svbikeclub.org) in Harrisonburg, Virginia lived up to its name. It was on Wednesday night and it was social; probably the most social ride I've ever ridden. I suppose there were 20-25 people that showed up at the Harrisonburg High School for the 5:15pm start. It was a mix of men and women, riding carbon bikes, steel bikes, tri bikes, and fixed gears. Throughout the whole ride people were chatting it up about anything from the upcoming century that the club is hosting to the current real estate market in Harrisonburg. It was like we were hanging out at a coffee shop but instead of sitting on couches and drinking coffee, we were riding bikes and drinking water; the conversation would have been the same. Every 6 to 8 miles the group leader would pull off to the side of the road and make sure everyone was still with the group, and then we would continue on our way again. I guess one time we stopped a bit longer to stretch or legs and talk to others that we weren't riding next to. Anyway, we rode for 25 or so miles through the hills of the Shenandoah Valley, riding on non-trafficked country roads and overlooking the valley; something I could definitely get used to. The air was so hot and humid that it was almost hazy looking into the distance, but don't let me talk down the views from the higher elevations; it was fantastic. So the ride finished back at the school where it started, we chatted a bit longer, and then I was on my way. We chatted a lot, rode some, and regrouped a few times; the essence of a social ride.

Floyd Landis to Contest Shenandoah Mountain 100

2006 Tour de France Winner, Floyd Landis to Contest Shenandoah Mountain 100 2006 Tour de France winner Floyd Landis will be on hand to race the Shenandoah Mountain 100. "I am honored to be invited to be part of the Shenandoah Mountain 100 event. I look forward to racing on the challenging course they have put together since it includes the kind of technical trail riding that first got me hooked on mountain bike racing," said 2006 our de France Champion Floyd Landis. The event, to be held Sunday September 2nd, 2007, is a 100-mile single-day mountain bike race in the George Washington National Forest outside of Harrisonburg, VA. With 14,000 feet of climbing - and descending - the SM100 is the premier endurance event on the East Coast and is the final event in the NEU MTB Series. Chris Scott, promoter of the event and owner of Shenandoah Mountain Touring, said "I'm pretty stoked that Floyd Landis has decided to return to his mountain biking roots and show up for the SM100. I've been dogging him for close to a year. All of the competitors will welcome Floyd with open arms. It was very unfortunate that Floyd could not represent with the #1 plate in the Tour this year. We are really excited that he will have the chance to sport the #1 in the Shenandoah." Floyd will have to contend with hours of climbing on steep dirt trails, narrow 30 mph descents and stream crossings, all while staying on his bike and watching his nutrition. Chris Scott expects the 100 miles will take Floyd around 7 1/2 hours. The 9th running of the event should see a full field of 450 mountain bikers set out from Stokesville, Virginia at dawn to complete 100 miles of gravel roads and narrow, rocky single track. "If he's really on his game, he could beat the course record set by Jeremiah Bishop last year of 7 hours 15 minutes," says Scott. "It's great that Floyd Landis will be here to race in Harrisonburg," says event sponsor and Harrisonburg local Thomas Jenkins from Shenandoah Bicycle Company. "I haven't raced against Floyd for 10 years and I ride these trails all the time. Riding with Floyd will be something special, and I'll be gunning for him." "It's such a great event, I'm not surprised that Floyd decided to race the SM100 after Scott Scudamore and I put the heat on him," said Michael Klasmeier from event sponsor City Bikes in Washington, DC. Klasmeier gave Landis the invitation at The National Bike Summit in Washington, DC. Floyd was a keynote speaker giving a talk to bicycle advocacy leaders on Capitol Hill. Floyd considered attending the event, but joked that he would attend only if the promoters guaranteed it would not rain. Scott Scudamore, the Washington DC Area IMBA rep and long time MORE member had previously put the screws to Floyd about attending the event in January while being the MC at the first Floyd Fairness Fund City Hall style gathering at the Arlington Cinema N' Draft House. Now it looks like he has a clear slate for the weekend and he is stepping up. For more details on the Shenandoah Mountain 100 or Shenandoah Mountain Touring, check out www.mountaintouring.com.

THURSDAYS FAST RIDE. Thursday Night Fast Ride The fast ride will be starting on March 15th, which is the first Thursday after the time changes. We'll be heading out at 5:30pm from old Keezletown Elementary, at the intersection of Indian Trail and Mountain Valley Rds. (This location might change due to the building being purchased - we'll discuss it if it becomes a problem.) For the first few weeks, we probably will do some tempo riding, instead of going all out, to give our bodies some time to wake up after the winter. If it is raining or below 40 degrees, Chris probably will not be there, but feel free to ride yourselves! Give Chris Meyer a call at 289-9472 or email her at cmeyer@websitereactions.com with any questions.

SUNDAYS SUNDAY RIDES. Rides leaving from Bridgewater College at 8 am. We ride 40-50 miles, or 2-3 hours+ to have fun! Please contact Rich Harris, 828-2380, e-mail harrisra@jmu.edu or call Marcia at 432-3312 each Saturday for latest ride information.

SUNDAY ALT. RIDE Jodi Hess and Carl Droms will be leading a ride on Sunday for those of us who want to (a) sleep in a little longer and (b) ride at a somewhat slower pace. We will meet at Mr. J's at Harmony Square (Food Lion north) on Sunday at 9:00 AM. Plan on something similar to a Wednesday ride in pace and distance.
